KITCHENER and STAFF KILLED

DEATH OVERTAKES THE HERO OF KHARTUM IN A WRECK

LONDON, June 6.--Admiral Jellicoe reported today that the Cruiser Hampshire, with Gen. Kitchener and staff aboard, was lost off the West Orkneys. Four boats were seen to leave the Hampshire in a heavy sea. One boat, containing a few bodies, was found. There is little hope for any survivors.

BRITISH CRUISER MANCHESTER SINKS OFF THE ORKNEYS WITH ALL ON BOARD

Encounters a Mine or Struck by a Torpedo While Conveying the British War Secretary to the Port of Archangel, Russia.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 6.--General Kitchener was en route to Russia, and probably intended to disembark at Archangel. The Hampshire carried normally 655 men.

Admiral Jellicoe's report says: "The Hampshire with General Kitchener and staff was sunk at eight o'clock last night west of the Orkneys, either by striking a mine or the impact of a torpedo. Patrol vessels were sent out to search for survivors. Some bodies in a capsized boat were found. The whole shore was searched and there is little hope that any survivors may be found."

The allies had confidence in Kitchener's judgment. His visits to France and Italy were supposed to have had important results in co-ordinating the work of the allies. The fact that he was en route to Russia is taken as an indication that he was bound on a similar mission.

The first intimation of his trip came with the announcement that he was lost. Naval officers expressed the opinion that the Hampshire struck a mine, as the boat was fast and the sea too rough for a torpedo.

Accompanying Kitchener as his staff were:

HUGH O'BEIRNE, ex-chancellor of the British embassy at Petrograd.

O. A. FITZGERALD, Kitchener's private military secretary.

BRIGADIER GENERAL ELLERSHAW.

SIR FREDERICK DONALDSON.

When the news was received of the loss of the head of the British war office a meeting of the war council was called.

Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial army staff, probably will become the new secretary of war.

KITCHENER A SELF-MADE DICTATOR OF BRITISH MILITARY POLICIES

Of several things that entitle Earl Kitchener to a place in world history, the most notable is that he organized the largest volunteer army the world has ever seen, in the greatest war of all times.

Within a year from the sudden outbreak of the European war in August, 1914, the ranks of British fighting men were quadrupled by an increase from less than one million to nearly 5,000,000.

By mere luck Kitchener happened to be in England on one of the comparatively rare visits that he had paid to London during his long career abroad, when the European war broke out. He had just come home from service as British agent in Egypt, had accepted an earldom from King George, and was being talked of as Viceroy of India. Within a few hours after England's declaration of war, Kitchener was appointed secretary of state for war and immediately took full charge at the war office where he worked day and night to overcome the handicap which the central powers had over England in the matter of fighting strength. He grimly told the British people they had a bigger war on their hands than they realized, and one that might last longer than they expected, but it was to be faced with entire confidence and he, unsmiling, almost like a dehumanized machine, set about to make things hum. He had scarcely moved into Whitehall street when he made numerous changes in the personnel of the war office, which was said to be honeycombed with social and political favoritism.

After dispatching a few hundred thousand regulars to France and Belgium to help check the onrushing Germans, the war secretary began recruiting and organizing his army of millions. The British Isles were covered with signs and posters urging young men to join the colors. Kitchener went through the country superintending the drilling of the army. From time to time were reports indicating his failure to get the number of men

Orkneys on Scottish Coast

The Orkney Islands are situated near Scotland, being an archipelago, forming a single county, separated from the northern coast of Caithness, by the Pentland Firth, from six to eight miles broad. There are in all about thirteen islands of considerable size, with a number of smaller dispersed over the archipelago. Of the whole about 28 are usually inhabited, although five or six do not contain a dozen inhabitants each. The climate is moist, but not cold, being tempered by the Gulf Stream that sweeps around the shores. The chief town is Kirkwall.

CHINA LOSES PRESIDENT

DEATH BRINGS HARMONY BY REMOVING CAUSE OF THE REVOLUTION

Immediately after Yuan's death premier Tuan Chi Jui advised Li Yuan Hung, vice president of his succession to the presidency. Quiet prevails at the capital.

The death of the president apparently solves the heated political crisis. Li's succession to the presidency meets the demands of the revolution, and leaders in the southern provinces, Yuan died in Peking.

WASHINGTON, June 6.--It was reported that attempts had been made to poison Yuan. This was officially denied by the Chinese legation, after inquiry by cable. A revolt against Yuan started in December last.

HUGHES DRIVE STARTS CRITICS

(By Associated Press.)

The effect of the Hughes drive has been to place the whole field of candidates against him.

SANTA ROSA MINE IN INYO CO. SHIPPING FROM GRASS ROOTS

The Santa Rosa mine which is partly owned by the West End Consolidated Mining company of Tonopah is rapidly developing into a property of the first magnitude and at the present rate of progress through the operation of leasers it will take a very short time to place the mine in good shape for the company to handle. Three weeks ago, leasers were granted to two different parties, both of whom have succeeded beyond their brightest expectations. Two men on one lease opened four feet of ore almost at grass roots and in the first two weeks took out 40 tons of $50 rock. Another lease, by Holland and company, which began at the same time working on a four foot vein, took out between thirty and forty tons of high-grade, valued at between $60 and $70. One man, on company account, in twenty days sacked twenty tons of $35 ore.

The property is splendidly equipped with fine array of surface improvements including boarding house, kitchen, dining room, assay office, blacksmith shop and all appurtenances adapted to the operation of the property, which promises to open a large ore body.

Nevertheless very little work of an exploratory character was done as a change of management led to a temporary cessation. Since the first of the year the owning interests have been seriously thinking of renewing the attack in the most approved manner but, before entering on an aggressive campaign, it was deemed wiser to test the resources without incurring any great expense. That explains why the property is now in the hands of leasers. Last week two well known local men, Peters of Manhattan and Sellstrom of Tonopah made a thorough sampling of the estate. As a result of this examination even bet samples than what were represented by the best ore taken out by the leasers were sent to Tonopah. On the
